GUAM CONGRESS BUILDING

After nearly a quarter of a century, the Guam Legislature now operates out of the historic Guam Congress Building. The building currently houses four senatorial offices, Central Operations, Legislative Counsel, and the Office of Finance and Budget. The Speaker Antonio R. Unpingco Legislative Session Hall and I Liheslatura's Public Hearing Room are also part of the building.

Additionally, the Guam Congress Building is LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) certified indicating recognition for its environmental performance and sustainability achievement. In the building, air conditioning units run on a consistent timer and the interior LED lighting fixtures are motion-sensored. A water system, which uses recycled water from rain and air conditioner condensation to supply the restrooms and building exterior, was also installed. These energy-efficient measures are anticipated to result in decreased utility costs.
