Resolution No. 2018-02
Relative to Approving the Contract Extension to Galaide Group, LLC for the Operations of the Guam Museum

April 4, 2018

Whereas, Guam Public Law 25-069 codified as Chapter 87, Title 5 Guam Code Annotated created I Dipåttamenton I Kaohao Guinahan Chamorro also known as the Department of Chamorro Affairs (DCA) to assist in the implementation of an integrated program for the preservation, development, and promotion of the Chamorro heritage of Guam; and

Whereas, Chapter 87, Title 5 provides that I Mås Ge'hilo (President) run the daily operations of I Dipåttamenton I Kaohao Guinahan Chamorro on behalf of the I Dipåttamenton I Kaohao Guinahan Chamorro Board of Trustee; and

Whereas, on April 4, 2016 the government of Guam engaged the professional services of the Galaide Group LLC, herein the CONTRACTOR to perform management, operations and maintenance services for the Guam and Chamorro Educational Facility also known as Kosas or the Guam Museum including furnishing, performing, and delivering all labor, supplies, materials, and services as provided in the April 4, 2016 contract; and,

Whereas, the professional services rendered are of a special nature of which the best public interest performed under the April 4, 2016c contract by professional services rather than DCA employees in the unclassified and classified service considered essential to the overall operations of the Guam Museum;

Whereas, the government of Guam's financial condition due to the recently passed Federal Tax legislation and circumstances beyond Guam's control, requires the reconsideration of contracting viability.

Now, therefore, be it resolved, that I Dipåttamenton I Kaohao Guinahan Chamorro (Department of Chamorro Affairs) Board of Trustee approves the April 4, 2016 contract extension between DCA & the Contractor until September 30, 2018.

Audit finds faults with Agriculture's fund use

An audit of the Guam Department of Agriculture has found faults with the agency's use of federal funds.

The audit was conducted by the Interior Department's Office of Inspector General. It covered the use of $7.2 million in U.S. Fish and Wildlife grants from Oct. 1, 2014, through Sept. 30, 2016.

Among the findings:

used for personal errands, and vehicles driven without proper documentation of their use.

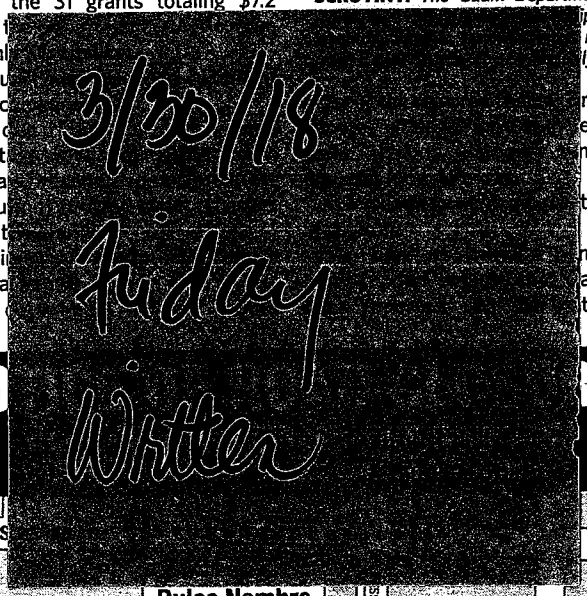

- Inadequate equipment inventory records

Property records for assets acquired with grant funds were not always complete. The records did not always list property tag numbers, identify the actual location of equipment, or document property disposal.

- Investment in capital equipment not benefiting the division

The department used $139,764 in grant funds to cover the costs of generators and air conditioning in its administration building, then directed the division's staff members to permanently relocate to the fisheries building.

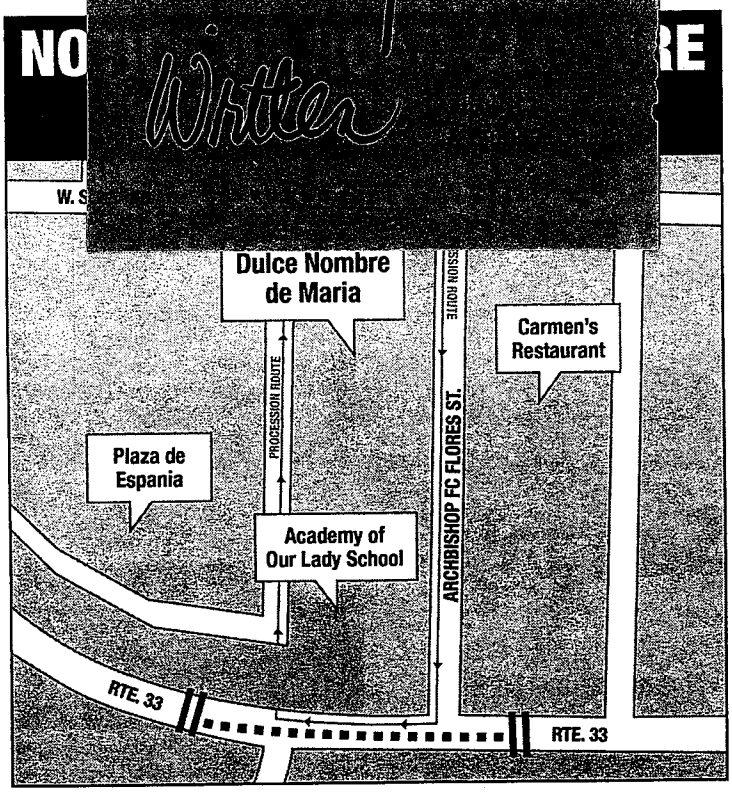

Calls to Department of Agriculture Director Matt Sablan for comment on the audit were not returned as of press time. (Daily Post Staff)

Uranus enters our early evening skies

PAM EASTLICK
FOR PDN

Greetings everyone! Although we've now lost speedy little Mercury from our early evening skies you can still see five of the planets. To see three of them, you need to get up early, no later than 5:45 a.m., and go outside and face south. The three planets are in a line five fist-widths above the southern horizon. Jupiter is the brightest on the right and Mars is getting closer and closer to Saturn, at least from our point of view. They'll reach their closest point of approach on Tuesday, April 3. It will be worth getting up early to see.

Venus is impossible to miss in our early evening sky. I love that our sister planet casts light trails on the water when it's close to the horizon as it is now. But wait a minute, I said you could see five planets and if Mercury is gone from the early evening sky how do you do that? Well, you need a good pair of binoculars.

Go outside this week and have a look at Venus with your binoculars. If you're lucky and the clouds don't get in the way, you just might see something really strange. You might see a green star. But, I hear you say, stars aren't green. That's true, and that's not a star. It's the planet Uranus.

Venus will get closer and closer to the green planet all week and they will make their closest point of approach on Wednesday. By Thursday, Venus will be above Uranus but they'll be in the same binocular field through the weekend.

And in case you've always associated the seventh planet from the sun with that crude fourth grade mispronunciation, be aware that all the planet names (with the exception of Earth) are Roman names. The Romans spoke Latin and all Latin words are ac-week. Just look down to see the sixth one.

Full moon is on Saturday and it's the second full moon of March. That

Tech woes hinder GMH fiscal controls

By John O'Connor
john@postguam.com

Pending information technology infrastructure improvements at the Guam Memorial Hospital are delaying full compliance with some compensation control recommendations levied since 2012 for employees making more than $100,000 per year, according to its head administrator.

The hospital is in the process of developing its annual budget proposal and administrator PeterJohn Camacho said GMH needs about $20 million for a new IT system. The hospital is largely funded through patient billings and insurance claims but is augmented through funding from special funds and the general fund.

While he did not know exactly how much GMH would seek in funding from the Legislature in fiscal year 2019, Camacho said the IT replacement cost should be in that reques

For employees below $100,000, OPA recommended restricting kempt" employees from overtime mpensation, formally adopting a fe work hours policy and automatg the payroll system to account for eekend and certification pay.

The OPA sent a follow-up letter GMH in December 2017, seekg an update on these control ecommendations.

From the 2012 audit recommendations, GMH was asked specifically to provide target dates for implementing payroll controls and electronic timekeeping requirements.

From the 2013 audit, the OPA wanted target dates for employee classification amendments and overtime restrictions as well as payroll automation for weekend and certification pay.

The OPA noted that GMH cited financial constraints for implementing recommendations involving payroll controls or automation, or the recommendation on electronic timekeeping.

All recommendations cited were partially implemented at the time.

GMH's latest response to the OPA was on Jan. 5. The hospital is prioritizing its payroll software programs but automatic calculations have been deferred and will not be implemented before the end of December. GMH implemented new payroll software in January 2017 but extensive programming was needed to make it reliable. The hospital is ensuring that standard processes are working completely before implementing automation of special pay categories.

GMH is also in the process of testing a biometric system for electronic timekeeping. The system was expected to be fully operational by March 15 but Camacho said more testing is needed and he did not know when it will be complete.

The hospital also identified a new IT system as a priority need in its budget this fiscal year, according to Camacho.

"When I came in here I would hear the frustration ... because the system just had so many bugs. And even when you thought you fixed it or added an upgrade, it would just mess up something else," Camacho said.

He was 20. The airman had just marked two years in the military service.

"He was killed in Guam while on assignment," the airman's mother said. "I do not have words to describe what my world is like right now and I cannot imagine my life without him."

"Rest in peace, my Sweet Pea," Charla Hale wrote.

The Air Force had previously confirmed a suspect has been in custody, but that person hasn't been charged.

The suspect's name and connection to Airman Hale haven't been publicly released.

Airman Hale was temporarily assigned to Guam as a part of the rotational deployment of airmen and bomber aircraft from Barksdale Air Force Base in Louisiana.

"Our focus is on supporting the families, the affected unit, and our community," said Brig. Gen. Douglas A. Cox, 36th Wing commander at Andersen. "This is a very difficult loss. "Rather than using salary amounts when the 40-percent increase was paid, the Retirement Fund is using salary amounts when the increase was supposed to be paid out; causing these employees to lose significant earnings towards retirement," it added.

As a result, GFT is inviting current and retired GovGuam public safety officers to meet with union representatives and its attorney to discuss the matter.
